

Rev. IlDug (Il: “One” + Dug: “Great Virtue”) Kim is a Won Buddhist Priest. She completed her novitiate studies consisting of a 2-year (1998-99) apprenticeship and then completed an undergraduate 4-year degree (2000-04) specializing in Won Buddhism Studies and Philosophy at Wonkwang University in Korea. After two more years of study (2004-06), IlDug received her Master’s degree from Won Institute of Graduate Studies in Glenside, Pennsylvania. She was ordained in December 2006 and is currently serving at the Won-Buddhism Temple of North Carolina. She supports the head priest in developing and carrying out Temple programs graciously, bringing cultural and spiritual enrichment to the community. This includes her teaching of the meditation classes at the Integrative Medical Center in Chapel Hill and leading services at the Temple.
